DR. FITZGERALD.

Who is Now Introducing this Most Invaluable Medicine called Life Invigorator.

THIS INVIGORATOR is compounded from the purest and best vegetable curatives, and while it is used to thoroughly eradicate all obnoxious obstructions of disease in the vital channels, it at the same time gives cheerfulness to the mind, restores memory, gives elasticity to the step and intensity to the sufferer. Happy Courageous! Sound! makes the sufferer. I do not claim as do most vendors of the so-called patent medicines "as a certain cure for all diseases," for I do not believe that any one medicine can be compounded so as to do that; but I do claim to have discovered a secret or certain cure for cheerfulness and strength never before made known. This "Life Invigorator" reaches the channel of the following diseases: Dyspepsia, Epileptic Fits, Scrofula, Catarrh, Ulcers, Humors of all kinds, Consumption, Seminal weakness, Female weakness, Diseases of the Liver, Biliousness, or Jaundice, Exhausted vitality, Rheumatism and Neuralgia, Asthma, Drops, Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Blood, Heart, Stomach, Bowels, Kidneys and Spine.

THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE QUESTION.

As we are similarly interested in the School Committee question, the following report of the Committee of the Portland Board to whom the questions involved were referred will be of interest. As the Committee which drew up this report embraced among its members Ex-Attorney General Reed, Judge Symonds and County Attorney Libby, the legal aspects of the case may be supposed to have been thoroughly examined:—

The undersigned, a Committee appointed to examine the laws relating to the organization of this Board, and to report the result of their investigations, ask leave to submit the following report:

The tenth section of chapter 11 of the Revised Statutes of 1857 gave power to towns to choose a committee of not less than three and to invest such committee with the powers both of a Superintending School Committee, and of a School Agent.

This section was repealed by the Act of the Legislature March 22d, 1870.

If then the City Council derived its authority to elect a School Board of twenty-one solely from R. S., 1857, Chapter 11, Sec. 10, it is clear that the present constitution of this Board is without legal authority. The change in the law, if one has been made, dates from the passage of the above act of 1870, and is not due to any action of this Board. It will be conceded that this act of 1870 was not probably intended by those who framed and passed it to affect in any manner the constitution of the School Committee in Portland.

But inasmuch as it has been the custom of the City Council for a period of thirty or more years to elect a School Board consisting of more than three members, it is evident that the assumption of authority for such action on the part of the City Government must be sought in earlier statutes than the revision of 1857, and while your committee have been unable to make a full examination of all the statutes relating to this matter, it is found that in the act of March 11th, 1854, it is especially provided, "That the inhabitants of the City of Portland shall be and are hereby authorized to hold annual meetings to choose their School Committee of such numbers as they may think proper, which committee shall have all the rights and powers and perform all the duties enjoined and imposed on the said Superintending Committee and said agents."

This was an act of local application, giving to the City of Portland without condition or limitation the right to determine the number of the School Board should consist, and it is undoubtedly the source of the authority on which the action of the City Government in this regard has since been based.

When the Statutes were revised in 1840, the act of 1854, to which the above provision was contained was repealed, subject, however, to the following provision, viz:

"No private act, or act of local application, now unrepealed, shall be affected by any provision of the Revised Statutes inconsistent therewith, unless such provision is different from the former public or general law on the same subject."

If this provision resumes from the operation of the repealing act of 1840 the above section of the act of 1854 which conferred a special right upon the City of Portland, then it is clear that the original authority for the organization of this Board, upon its present basis, still remains in force.

Thus far is no difference of opinion among the members of your committee, who join in this report.

But upon the vital question whether the act of 1854 still remains in force, there is more or less difference of opinion, and we cautiously state in reporting that it is a doubtful question of law what the true construction of the foregoing provision in the repealing act of 1840 may be, and that this doubt can only be set at rest by judicial construction or by an act of the Legislature. It can by no means be asserted as clear that the act of 1854 is now inoperative.

This is the only report which the Committee can submit upon that point. It won'd be expected that our report should embody the different views of the individual members of the Committee. Moreover, there is strong reason to believe that upon any construction of the statutes three members of the Board have been legally elected.

In preparing this report we have confined ourselves strictly to the point submitted to us, and have considered none of the difficulties and complications which attend upon the theory that the Board is not legally organized.

The changes from first to last, in the statutes regarding School Committees of Portland and towns and cities generally, and stating it as his opinion that Portland had to-day no legally constituted School Committee. He recommended two propositions, the only ones sanctioned by the present laws—either the election of a Committee of three and a School Agent, or a Supervisor and School Agent. The whole matter was referred to a Joint Special Committee, Mayor Wescott, Chairman, who will report at the regular meeting of the City Council, April 6.

DEBT AND EXPENDITURES.

Hon. E. H. Roberts republican member of the House of Representatives from New York in a recent speech upon debt and expenditures, made the following statements:

"The European powers are staggering under hopeless indebtedness, in spite of exhaustive taxation. Germany has had the moderation to husband the great indemnity collected of France. If it does not sooner or later expend the money and transfer its balance to the other column of the ledger, it will afford a brilliant exception in the experience of great nations. For the record of Britain is an illustration of the drift of all. The begumion of that financial structure which will endure while the British name defies oblivion was begun during the revolution, and the debt was $464,263 in 1698. It has had a growth irregular, but, measured by long periods, pretty constant ever since. The Napoleonic wars carried the debt to its maximum in 1815, when it touched the gigantic sum of $816,311,940. Within two years it was reduced nearly £40,000,000; and in 1817 became £726,742,403, and was not so low again until 1828, when it fell to £772,322,540. The reduction was further continued with vibrations until 1842, when the amount rose again to £774,419,913, tending then downward to to £764,368,284 in 1847. But it leaped upward again to to £772,401,851, in 1848, when it was higher than it had been twenty years previously, and reached a new maximum in 1850 of £780,601,154, going clear back almost to the aggregate at the close of the wars against Napoleon. Since that maximum a reduction has been accomplished to £784,972,103 on the 31st of March, 1873. Gladstone's boasted reduction leaves the debt only £31,339,537 below the fearful maximum of 1815.

This debt has rolled up to this magnitude in spite of magnificent revenues. Under William the Conqueror, from 1066 to 1086, British revenues averaged £400,000 a year, and fell to £80,000 under Henry III., (1210-1272.) and even to £66,000 under Henry VI. (1422-1460.) Under the proud Tudors they rose again to £240,000, under the seventh Henry, and even to £300,000 under Henry VIII., while the great Elizabeth maintained her sway on an average revenue of £500,000 a year. A century trebled the receipts, for under the Commonwealth they became £1,800,000. Yet the debt really begun only when William III. the revenues rose to £4000. The Georges carried the revenues from £5,000,000 into 1714 £70,000,000 in 1820, and under them the debt reached its maximum. Under Victoria the revenue averaged £55,000,000 a year from 1837 to 1859; but reached £82,868,313 in 1857, falling and remaining below that sum until 1869, when it was £72,501,092, becoming £75,434,252 in 1870; and for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1872, £74,708,314, and for 1873, £76,969,770.

The British example teaches that the increase of revenue seldom contributes to reduce the debt even in time of general peace; and that such increase, with apparent fluctuations, fastens itself like a leech upon the body politic, and often is followed by addition to the debt. Falling off of revenue may create a deficiency. Limitation of expenditure must produce the surplus.

We have been boasting of our own reduction of indebtedness; and it is true that the progress is honorable. We do not weary of repeating that our debt has been reduced since 1865 by $570,483,180 up to the beginning of this fiscal year. So, to be sure, British financiers boasted of the grand payments after the close of the essential wars against Napoleon, and of the renewed prospects of diminution about 1828 and the period immediately succeeding. They were nearly staggered by the new maximum after the Crimean wastes; and if the subsequent reduction be permanent all previous experience will be contradicted, and the result proved better than their hopes.

The British debt has crystallized beyond the magnitude of all the Koh-i-noors in the world, not because of low revenues, but in spite of the bravest taxation; which successive men have been able to devise. A few years of reduction have not prevented marvelous increase in the experience of the great nations. For the record of Britain is an illustration of the drift of all. The begumion of that financial structure which will endure while the British name defies oblivion was begun during the revolution, and the debt was $464,263 in 1698. It has had a growth irregular, but, measured by long periods, pretty constant ever since. The Napoleonic wars carried the debt to its maximum in 1815, when it touched the gigantic sum of $816,311,940. Within two years it was reduced nearly £40,000,000; and in 1817 became £726,742,403, and was not so low again until 1828, when it fell to £772,322,540. The reduction was further continued with vibrations until 1842, when the amount rose again to £774,419,913, tending then downward to to £764,368,284 in 1847. But it leaped upward again to to £772,401,851, in 1848, when it was higher than it had been twenty years previously, and reached a new maximum in 1850 of £780,601,154, going clear back almost to the aggregate at the close of the wars against Napoleon. Since that maximum a reduction has been accomplished to £784,972,103 on the 31st of March, 1873. Gladstone's boasted reduction leaves the debt only £31,339,537 below the fearful maximum of 1815.

This debt has rolled up to this magnitude in spite of magnificent revenues. Under William the Conqueror, from 1066 to 1086, British revenues averaged £400,000 a year, and fell to £80,000 under Henry III., (1210-1272.) and even to £66,000 under Henry VI. (1422-1460.) Under the proud Tudors they rose again to £240,000, under the seventh Henry, and even to £300,000 under Henry VIII., while the great Elizabeth maintained her sway on an average revenue of £500,000 a year. A century trebled the receipts, for under the Commonwealth they became £1,800,000. Yet the debt really begun only when William III. the revenues rose to £4000. The Georges carried the revenues from £5,000,000 into, 1714 £70,000,000 in 1820, and under them the debt reached its maximum. Under Victoria the revenue averaged £55,000,000 a year from 1837 to 1859; but reached £82,868,313 in 1857, falling and remaining below that sum until 1869, when it was £72,501,092, becoming £75,434,252 in 1870; and for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1872, £74,708,314, and for 1873, £76,969,770.

The British example teaches that the increase of revenue seldom contributes to reduce the debt even in time of general peace; and that such increase, with apparent fluctuations, fastens itself like a leech upon the body politic, and often is followed by addition to the debt. Falling off of revenue may create a deficiency. Limitation of expenditure must produce the surplus.

We have been boasting of our own reduction of indebtedness; and it is true that the progress is honorable. We do not weary of repeating that our debt has been reduced since 1865 by $570,483,180 up to the beginning of this fiscal year. So, to be sure, British financiers boasted of the grand payments after the close of the essential wars against Napoleon, and of the renewed prospects of diminution about 1828 and the period immediately succeeding. They were nearly staggered by the new maximum after the Crimean wastes; and if the subsequent reduction be permanent all previous experience will be contradicted, and the result proved better than their hopes.

CONGRESSIONAL TALK.

The disposition to indulge in the largest amount of talk over the smallest amount of action, is perhaps a characteristic of all deliberative bodies in this enlightened country; but we think that none of them will dispute with Congress for the palm in this respect. The passion for making buncombe speeches has long been a serious clog upon the transaction of the public business, and the increase of membership in Congress has added to the proportions of this evil. The records of any Congress for the past twenty years will show a vast amount of useless oratory, but we think there can hardly be found a more spelling exercise of the national "gift of the gab," than in the interminable amount of talk upon the finances and currency during the present session. In looking over the Congressional Record we have been more fully impressed with the talking mania of the present Congress and do not wonder that it has extorted the earnest protest of practical members. During the financial discussion in the Senate last Thursday, a resolution was offered by Mr. Sherman to limit speeches on the several amendments to the pending bill to ten minutes by each Senator. Mr. Saulsbury, from force of habit, probably, objected on the ground of protecting the rights of the minority, when Mr Hamlin made the following pointed remarks which we think express very clearly the feeling of the people at large on this subject of Congressional talk:

Mr President, that the Senator from Delaware, from a high sense of duty opposes this resolution I know, that he does it from a conscientious sense of duty I know, but that Senator ought to know that men differ in opinion, and that while he expresses his opinions here, there are others of us who are entitled also to ours. Now, sir, I shall vote for the resolution. I shall vote for it cheerfully, because, in the language used by the Senator from Ohio (Mr Thurman) yesterday, (Mr Thurman), and in language similar to that which I had used at an earlier day, I think this debate has extended to a point where it is criminal to continue it much further. I want to see free and reasonable debate upon all questions here I believe that we have the best Government in the world. I think we all concur in that opinion, and yet it is not a Government without its faults, and if I were to name to-day the great fault in our Government, it would be that interminable disposition to talk which exists in the Congress of the United States. I believe that is one of the fundamental evils of our Government, by which no other Government on [illegible] subjected. There are some of us here who are now talking, [illegible] the non talking men have some rights as well as the man who speaks almost interminably. I claim to be very nearly within that class of non talking men. I have sat here in patience for four mortal months listening to speech after speech of gentlemen who saw fit to address numbers of empty seats. And how much were the members of the body enlightened by that discussion than long drawn out? Every Senator of course will be controlled by his own obligations and his own sense of duty, but I say that there comes now from the remotest corners of your country a cry that we ought to heed, that it is time to act. I confess I was pained when my friend from Delaware yesterday objected to agreeing unanimously to a mode of concluding this discussion.

I do not want to see limitations placed upon debate here, other than those the Senators shall agree upon, but I do see them hastening on when an ability to discharge our duties here will demand of us to put limitations my rule upon debate, and when we have discussed a matter for four long months, and then there come objections to a limitation and we do not know that the debate will not be extended four other months, I see that there is a proceeding which will hasten the restrictions of debate because these restrictions will be absolutely demanded. I think, therefore, that it would have been wiser to adopt the course suggested yesterday. I would have preferred it much to this resolution.

Now, there are only three modes of closing this debate. One is by a unanimous consent. To that, from a sense of duty, the Senator from Delaware interposes an objection. The second would be by sitting here and exercising physical endurance without any profit. The third is the proposition before us. I can conceive of no other way, and as I rather prefer that we should do it in a little more quiet manner, and a manner a little agreeable to Senators than that of physical endurance, prefer this to an uninterrupted sitting. We can get to the question in only one of these three ways, and I shall vote cheerfully for this resolution. And I think if we are driven after such protracted debate to this resort, it furnishes a hand-writing that all can read that we must come by rules to some reasonable limitations upon what I call the abuses of debate. Less talk and more prompt action is what the country demands.

We are pleased to note that our special despatch from Augusta announces the renomination of Hon Warren Johnson, as Superintendent of Schools for this State We think the action of Governor Dingley in retaining the services of this able officer will be warmly commended by the friends of education in Maine, as his continuance at the head of our school system assures a vigorous prosecution of the crusade against ignorance

Hon R B Elliott of South Carolina, has accepted an invitation extended by the colored citizens of Boston, to deliver an address on the life and character of the late Senator Sumner, in Faneuil Hall, April 14th, the anniversary of the death of Lincoln

Gerrit Smith has written a letter warmly commending the course of the women against intemperance. He is opposed to all attempts to secure a reform by license or total option, but favors the suppression of dram-selling by the infliction of rigorous penalties, and the punishment of the drunkard for "imperilling, by his responsible insanity, the rights of others"

The Hon. Lewis D. Campbell of Cincinnati who was Chairman of the Congressional Committee which recommended the expulsion of Preston Brooks for assaulting Senator Sumner, and who afterward acted as Burlingame's second in the latter's duel with Brooks, has still in his possession the original correspondence which led to the encounter, and many other documents bearing upon the assault, which he thinks of publishing, to establish the truth of history.

An English paper calls the attention of New Yorkers to a notice published by the Lord Chamberlain in the London Gazette, which reads: "Notice is hereby given that the presentation of Mrs. Johnson, at her Majesty's drawing room, on Thursday, the 26th of February last, took place through inadvertence."

At the meeting of the New England Historic-Genealogical Society in Boston, Wednesday, a paper was read by Rufus K. Sewall, Esq., of Wiscasset, Me., on the ethnological remains and shell heaps at Damariscotta. Specimens for illustration were also exhibited.

The Boston Advertiser has a rather heavily strained editorial congratulating the stockholders of the Eastern and Maine Central and the general public that there was so much unanimity in the Waterville meeting. It is particularly pleased that the contract between the two companies was ratified; talks rather strangely about the others having "been obliged to use" money in legislation, and hopes for an adjustment of the troubles with the Boston & Maine,

Elisha Whittlesey, who was a member of Congress from Ohio, about fifty years ago, serving some twenty years, made his first trip to Washington, on horseback, with a pair of saddlebags. On arriving at Washington he let his horse to a livery stable keeper, for more than the cost of boarding the animal, and at the end of the session rode home again.

THE DOVER TEMPERANCE BAND.

We copy some statements from the Piscataquis Observer of this week, which show that the reports which have appeared in despatches to Boston and in other forms, concerning the ladies' praying band in Dover, have grossly misrepresented the facts.' It is not easy to imagine any other motive for attempting to cast ridicule upon the sincere efforts of the ladies of Dover, than a desire to injure the temperance cause; and in justice to those concerned we present the Observer's statements in full.

Special despatches from Bangor to the Boston Herald always have suspicious earmarks. The last base misrepresentation from that source is the following:—

BANGOR, March 23. The temperance band in Dover, consisting of seventeen ladies, made a sudden and unexpected attack upon the saloon of Mrs. Henry Parsons in that town last evening. Mrs. Parsons was busy at the time of their entering, and did not notice their presence until one of them called her and said they came to sing and pray for her, and would neither sign the pledge nor give any reason for not doing so. The ladies sang and prayed again, and by this time the people in the village had heard was going on, and found their way to the saloon, filling it with interested spectators. The leaders were about to leave, when a gentleman present said he would like to have the leader of the band, the most prominent lady in Dover, answer a few simple questions. He first asked her if she had not a little ale at her own house. She falteringly replied in the affirmative, but said she used it for sacramental purposes. "Haven't you, in addition to ale, a little brandy, a little gin, and some very delicious wine?" 'Yes," was the hesitating reply. "And don't you when you have company to entertain put your liquors and wines on the table and ask them to partake?" The answer, "yes," was hardly audible. "Then," said the gentleman, "the best thing you can do is to go home and spill your own liquors. It will then be time to come here and demand this woman, who is a member of the same church that you are, to stop selling ale." The rebuke cut like a knife, and the praying band went their way without offering to enter another saloon.

We need only say in this community, that the lady referred to is Mrs. John G. Mayo, a brand the whole thing as a deliberate, wilful and malicious falsehood, on the part of somebody The following card is published by request:—

A CARD.

I have been shown a despatch from Bangor to the Boston Herald, which purports to give the conversation between the president of the women's praying band and a gentleman (?), in the saloon of Mrs. Henry Parsons, in this village, last Tuesday.

So far as I am individually concerned it cannot affect me, but as it may affect the cause in which we are engaged I feel it my duty to make the following statement That we went to the saloon of Mrs Parsons is true, that we requested her to refrain from selling ale and cider is also true, but that we sang or prayed, or attempted to do either, is not true

A gentleman present did ask me if I kept wine in my cellar, and I replied that I did have the church wine used for communion services He did ask me if I had brandy or gin in my cellar, to which I replied that I had not. But that he asked me if I put it on the table for company, or that I replied in the affirmative, is a base fabrication

A FIRM EXECUTIVE

The following correspondence relative to the disturbances at Susquehanna Depot, Pa, has been published, and the admirable reply of Governor Hartranft to the protest against the calling out of the military, is worthy of attention

THE PROTEST.

SUSQUEHANNA DEPOT, March 29

J F Hartranft, Governor of Pennsylvania

The undersigned, citizens of Susquehanna Depot, do most respectfully but earnestly protest against the introduction of armed troops into our borough at this time, to be used in supporting the interests of a corporation against our own citizens, who ask nothing but their hard earned wages due to them from said corporation. We don t believe there is any such emergency as calls for such extreme measures. No peace officer of our borough has yet been called upon to interfere, nor has any attempt of yourself or any officer to make an arrest been resisted We also protest against the employment of troops under command of paid counsel of the corporation in whose interest they are to be used. We ask, in the name of humanity, that the order issued for such measures be countermanded, as we otherwise have reason to fear great destruction of life and property Signed by a majority of the leading citizens of this borough. (Signed)

W. J. FALKENBURG, Burgess

THE GOVERNOR'S REPLY.

HARRISBURG, March 29

W. J Falkenburg, Burgess, Susquehanna Dp

As an individual I may sympathize with your people in their misfortune in not receiving prompt payment of their dues, but as the Chief Executive of this State I cannot allow creditors, however meritorious their claims may be, to forcibly seize property of their debtors and hold it without due process of law much less can I allow them to take and hold possession of a great highway and punish the innocent public, either as passengers or transporters, for the default of a corporation with which they have no concern Whenever the laws of this Commonwealth shall provide that the employes of a railroad may suspend all traffic upon it until their wages are paid, I will acquiesce, but I cannot do so while the law imposes no contemplate any such remedy My duty is not to make the laws or criticise them, but to execute them, and that duty I must discharge without fear or favor, General Osborne is the officer in command I have implicit faith in his impartiality, firmness and discretion. I have ordered him to confer with the Sheriff of your county, who is its proper peace officer If the laws are not set at defiance the Sheriff will so inform Gen Osborne If they are set at defiance Gen Osborne has been ordered to enforce obedience to them. If unfortunate consequences follow the responsibility must rest with those who endeavor to redress their wrongs by violence in contempt of the laws of their country, and of the officers whose sworn duty it is to take care that they may be faithfully executed.

The Lord Mayor of London gave a banquet Tuesday night at the Mansion House in honor of Sir Garnet Wolseley. Among the distinguished guests were the Prince of Wales, Prince Arthur, the Duke of Cambridge, Viscount Cardwell and Gathorne Hardy. Gen. Wolseley in response to a toast gave an interesting account of the Ashantee expedition, and declared that King Coffee had for a long time premeditated war. The General was received with the greatest enthusiasm, and his speech was frequently interrupted with cheers.

Dr. Alfred Hitchcock, a well-known physician, died at his residence in Fitchburg, Mass., Monday night, of angina pectoris, with which disease he was first attacked but little more than a week ago. He was one of the Committee of physicians who attended the autopsy on the body of Charles Sumner, who perished of the disease to which Dr. Hitchcock, little more than two weeks later, fell a victim.

The mineral products of Nova Scotia, the past year were 1,051,467 tons of coal, worth $2,626,847; 11,883 ounces of gold, worth $819; 200; 3,500 tons of iron, 120,000 tons of plaster, and 2,980 tons of freestone. There is a prospect of an increased product the present year.

A New York special to the Boston Traveller says the decision of the Congregational Council "receives almost unanimous approval. Even Mr. Beecher's friends admit that the council has dealt with the question in a kind, firm and considerate manner. On the other hand, it is believed that the mitigated admonition to the Plymouth Church will have a salutary effect, and is far better and wiser than an open censure would have been. Although many members of the Church feigned indifference as to the result during the sessions of the council, they do not now conceal their satisfaction, and gladness that the verdict was not a more severe one. Mr. Beecher was kept informed faithfully at every stage of the proceedings of the council, and it was from him that the press obtained the statement of the vote on the verdict."

DOMESTIC NEWS.

FORTY-THIRD CONGRESS

First Session.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, April 1.

Several petitions were presented asking increased appropriations for the removal of the obstructions at Hell Gate, N. Y.

A joint resolution was agreed to allowing R. M. and Stephen A. Douglass to have their [illegible] claims adjusted by the Court of Claims.

The bills for redemption and reissue of U. S. notes for free banking were taken up, the [illegible] question being the amendment of Mr. [illegible] to that of Mr. Logan, providing for the organization of National Banks in [illegible] State or Territory having a less proportion of [illegible] banks than Maine, and the issue of [illegible] on the basis of population and [illegible] and each State and Territory has an amount of circulation equal to that of Maine. After the offering of several amendments and considerable debate the Senate without [illegible] any progress with the bill adjourned.

HOUSE.

Mr. Rainey of S. C., presented a counter [illegible] of the Republican Central Committee of South Carolina to the so called [illegible] of taxpayers. It declares that the taxpayers have no one but themselves to blame for [illegible] the work of reconstruction, and the figures given by the memorial [illegible] and skilfully arranged to deceive.

[illegible] the Russian Mennonites to [illegible] settlements on public lands, was reported and made the special order [illegible] Wednesday.

A bill supplementary to the [illegible] law was discussed during the morning hour.

The House took up the currency bill, and was addressed by Mr. Phelps of New Jersey, against the bill and against inflation of the currency.

Mr. Hawley of Connecticut followed on the same [illegible] question, and at the conclusion of his remarks a colloquy arose between E. R. Hoar and Mr. Eldredge in regard to the [illegible] decision of the Supreme Court.

At [illegible] the House took a recess. The evening session was for action on the [illegible] revision of the laws.

WASHINGTON.

SANBORN CONTRACTS — ASST. SECY. SAWYER EXAMINED.

WASHINGTON, April 1. Fred A. Sawyer, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury has made a statement before the Committee on Ways and Means. He gave his recollection of the manner in which the provisions authorizing the Sanborn contracts was embodied in the legislative appropriation bill last year. He was then a member of the Senate Appropriation Committee but had no personal connection with the offering of that amendment in the committee. He believed that he voted for it as he also did afterwards in the conference committee. He denied the assertion that the provision was smuggled into the bill. He declined to give any opinion as to whether the Sanborn contract was or was not in compliance with the terms of the law. The Solicitor of the Treasury Department was the proper officer to frame contracts.

DEPARTMENT BUSINESS.

He had no personal knowledge of Sanborn, Presby or any persons connected with the contracts and all his official acts in reference to them were merely formal and done in the regular course of business. He gave an explanation of the manner of doing business in the Treasury Department, corresponding generally with that given yesterday by the Secretary, that is, that the papers were brought to them for signatures and that when the papers were checked by subordinates having charge of that particular branch of business they were signed without being read.

NO ADVICE.

He defended the Department against the imputations of having withheld important papers. He declines to give his opinion as to the propriety of repealing, amending or continuing the law as it is on ground that it was a legislative question which was to be decided by the committee and Congress.

THE DISTRICT INVESTIGATION.

In the District of Columbia Investigation this afternoon, the counsel for the memorialists called the attention of the Committee to the statutes at large containing the law appropriating $10,000 providing that the co operation or District of Columbia government would appropriate an equal amount to repair old cobble pavement on Pennsylvania Avenue, west of 15th street, after which he called S. D. Castleman, who testified that the Board of Public Works disregard that act and put down the new pavement at a cost largely greater than the $20,000 contemplated under the act of Congress.

T. T. Fowler testified concerning the consolidation of several paving companies and Governor Sheppard's connection with them.

Gov. Sheppard desired to make a statement under oath, and was allowed to explain, which he did by denying Fowler's statements.

GENERAL HOWARD'S CASE.

In the Howard Court to-day, the testimony of the clerks in the 2d Auditors office was continued as to the manner of disbursing money under the Freedmen's Bureau. Mr. Sims, chief of one of the divisions in the Auditors office, stated that he did not think General Howard could have know or he would have rectified the mistakes of the other disbursing officers for which he was held responsible.

MARYLAND.

FACTORY STRIKE.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 1. A strike occurred yesterday at the cotton factory of Gambrill & Sons, at Woodberry, Baltimore county. The entire number of operatives, 75 men, women and children left work.—They have been working 12 hours per day, and demand a reduction to 10 hours, which the employers refused to concede.

Terrible Conflagrations!

Millerstown, Pa., and Rosendale, N. Y.

SEVEN PERSONS PERISH!

Heavy Losses of Property

TERRIBLE FIRE—SEVEN PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH.

MILLERSTOWN, Pa., April 1. A fire broke out here this morning in the Central Hotel, by which seven persons were burned to death. Their bodies were recovered. The following is a list of the bodies found: Norah Carty, of Pleasantville; George Deel, a German; Capt. Oliver, an oil operator; Martin, Phillips and Sanford, Agent Drillers and one whose name could not be ascertained. Nellie McCarty jumped from the third story of the hotel and was badly injured, but is still alive.

SIXTY-NINE BUILDINGS DESTROYED.

Sixty-nine buildings were destroyed, the fire extending on the east side of Main street, from Fredericks' hardware and grocery store toward the south, including in its destruction Sink's hotel and two other buildings on the west side of the same street, from "Red Franks' Shebang" to Schneider's billiard saloon on Slippery Rock st., on the north side from Fredericks' boot and shoe store west to Burnat's grocery store, and from a dwelling on the south side of Slippery Rock street east to Puff's laundry.

FEARS THAT MORE PERISHED.

More persons are thought to have been burned, but it is not known yet.

THE LOSS.

PITTSBURG, April 1. The loss by fire at Millerstown as far as ascertained is $232,800, and the insurance was $5[illegible],350.

ANOTHER VILLAGE ON FIRE—THE INHABITANTS FRANTIC.

KINGSTON, April 1. A fire broke out in the Sequoris Hotel in the village of Rosendale, nine miles from here to night, and half the place is said to be burned. The inhabitants are frantic, and telegraphed here for assistance. The Mayor sent a steam engine and hose. The fire was uncontrolled at last reports.

NEW YORK CITY.

BUSINESS DEPRESSED.

NEW YORK, April 21. The Herald prints an article stating that the various branches of business in this city are extremely dull, and that some of the leading merchants predict another panic.

DIED.

Gen. Harvey S. Brown died at Clifton, Staten Island, last evening. He served in the Mexican war and in the late rebellion.

THE WORKINGMEN.

The circular agreed upon last week by the workingmen's central council calling mass meetings over the country was issued yesterday. It is probable that the carpenters, masons, plasterers and others will strike this spring for eight hours and advanced pay.

HORSE DISEASE.

The "pink eye" disease among horses is quite prevalent in Brooklyn, over two hundred horses of car routes being down with it. The disease is not fatal.

CHURCH TRIAL.

A Methodist Conference is trying Rev. P. P. Kendrick in Williamsburg on charges of gross immorality, intoxication, dancing and attending a ball. The testimony thus far taken is very weak.

SHOCKING.

The body of Ann Seabury was found in a terrible state of decomposition in a house in Brooklyn where she had been left alone to die with the small-pox.

BEECHER ON GREENBACKS.

Henry Ward Beecher, in a lecture last evening, referred to greenbacks as "government lies," which the government is issuing by the 100,000. The assertion was heartily applauded.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

The Cotton Exchange will be closed from Thursday evening to Monday morning.

Kate Stoddard is to be tried this month for the alleged murder of Charles Goodrich.

The strike at Weehawken coal docks has closed, most of the men accepting the terms of the company.

The striking rock men of the Lackawana Railroad at Bergen tunnel were notified to-day that work will be suspended until May 1st, unless they resume work at the old price of $1 50 per day. Some desire to return to work but are prevented by the threats of others.

DISTILLERY COW STABLES—A REVOLTING DISCOVERY.

The Brooklyn Eagle has discovered the existence, just beyond the limit of the city, in stables filled with filth and dirt, packed together in the closest possible space and in all conditions of disease, of 800 cows, fed upon hot swill emptied from an adjoining distillery. Some are toothless, others blear-eyed, others have festering sores upon their legs and udders; some are so bloated with dropsy that they have to be propped up, to be prevented from falling down never to rise again, others are so cadaverous from diseases that their bones protrude from the flesh. All have the abbreviated tail incised as an inocculating process to modify the acuteness and intensity of the disease which results from the imbibition of the swill.

THE STABLES.

In the stable there was no ventilation except the air that struggled through the doors. No light was visible between the boards. The ceilings were low and the cows stood knee deep in mud and filth which abounded on every side.

WHERE "PURE" MILK IS OBTAINED.

The Eagle publishes the names of several who peddle the swill milk to the amount of 12,000 quarts daily as "Orange County," "Pure Putnam County" and "Long Island" milk to retail dealers and citizens of the two cities.

"CORN FED" PORK.

The number of swine luxuriating on the nourishment obtained from the swill could not be ascertained. Their pens fringe all sides of the buildings and gave evidence that citizens obtained much of their "corn fed" pork from this locality.

INDIANA.

LICENSE REQUIRED.

JEFFERSONVILLE, April 1. The Common Council of this city have passed an ordinance requiring liquor dealers to pay $500 for a license.

MASSACHUSETTS.

EIGHTH BALLOT—THE DEAD-LOCK UNBROKEN.

ANTI-INFLATION MEETING.

BOSTON, April 1. A large number of leading merchants have signed a call for an anti-Inflation meeting in Faneuil Hall, Saturday evening next.

EMBEZZLER SENTENCED.

Wm. S. Scofield convicted of embezzling money letters from the Boston Post-office, was to-day sentenced to three years in the State prison.

STRIKE ON THE B. & A. R. R.

It is reported that all the laborers and section men on the Boston and Worcester division of the Boston & Albany Railroad struck for higher wages and were promptly discharged. The pay received by a laborer was $1.50 per day.

FAST DAY.

To-morrow will be observed as the annual fast in Massachusetts. The legislature and courts have adjourned over, the Custom House closes and business in Boston will be generally suspended.

THE WEATHER.

WAR DEPARTMENT,

FOREIGN NEWS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

FINANCIAL PANIC IN LONDON.

LONDON, April 1. The Times acknowledges the existence of a financial panic in London, and attributes it to the effect of those with which New York and Vienna have been visited, combined with the pressing influence of the Indian famine. It says that the check to trade will probably be as severe as in former instances.

A DENIAL FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, April 1. The Express says that the existence of a panic is not acknowledged by the London correspondents of a single banking house in this city, but on the contrary, one of the most prominent banking firms, Drexel, Morgan & Co., have received the following notice from its London agents: "The rumor is an unfounded one. Only two speculators have failed. Beyond extreme dullness everything appears sound."

MARINE DISASTERS.

LONDON, April 1. The bark John Black, from Liverpool for New York via Andros[illegible], put back leaky with cargo shifted.

At their next meeting, next Monday evening, they will discuss the question whether natural abilities or education have most to do with success in life.

TEMPERANCE AT UPPER STILLWATER. A correspondent at Upper Stillwater writes as follows:— "The women's temperance movement in this village is quietly but firmly progressing, and the day is not far distant when there will not be a drop of intoxicating liquor sold in this community. Rev. A. Whitney, our genial and popular Methodist preacher, delivered a very excellent temperance sermon to a well filled house last Sunday. He will probably remain with us another year."

LUMBERING OPERATIONS. Most of the teams which have been employed in lumbering the past winter by parties in this vicinity, have come out of the woods, although everything is yet favorable for their operations, there being from one to two feet of snow in the northern part of this county and still more beyond. The past season has been excellent for lumbering operations, though few crews and teams, compared with previous years, have been engaged in them. The amount of lumber cut is about two-thirds as much as was cut last year. The river drivers are getting ready to start out.

CRUSHED TO DEATH. About half-past three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Isaac T. Stevens attempted to drive over the Front-st. crossing of the Maine Central railroad in Waterville, just as a wood train was backing up, and his horse becoming frightened and stopping just as the carriage fairly reached the track, the saloon car, on the rear end of the train, struck the carriage, smashing it to atoms. Mr. Stevens was thrown out directly under the wheels of the car, which, passing over him, so horribly mutilated his body that it was scarcely recognizable as human remains. The saloon car, which contained some twenty workmen, was thrown from the track, and striking upon its side was badly smashed. The inmates were badly frightened and somewhat bruised, but none, it is believed, were seriously injured. Mr. Stevens' remains were taken to the freight house to await the investigation of a Coroner's jury. He was about 60 years of age.

A collection will be taken up, towards the expense of the building.

After this date religious services will be held every Sabbath afternoon and evening, and a collection will be taken each Sabbath to meet the expense. The Sunday school will be held immediately after the afternoon services.

DECISIONS AT LAW.

The following cases at Law have been decided by the Full Court:—

YORK COUNTY.

Harriet Hill et al., in Equity, vs. William Stevenson; on Bill, answer and proof, "Decree as prayed for."

Rescript.—A delivery to a donee of a Savings Bank book with the intent to give such donee the deposits represented by the book is a good delivery; and vests an equitable title to such deposits in the donee without assignment.

The delivery may be to the donee, or to some other person for the donee.

A judgment in a suit upon an administrator's bond in which the administrator was found guilty of official neglect in not including the money deposited in the Savings Bank and was required to and did inventory such money and collect the same, is no bar to a suit by the donee to recover it from his hands.—(Appleton, C. J.)

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

Inhabitants of Falmouth vs. Inhabitants of Windham; on exceptions and motion for new trial by defts.; "Motion and Exceptions overruled."

Rescript.—The testimony is conflicting. The result depends upon the credibility of the witnesses, and there is no decided balance of testimony either way. In such cases a motion for a new trial, because the verdict is against the weight of testimony, will be overruled.

As to the motion on the ground of newly discovered testimony, it is quite apparent that that testimony, so far as it is material, might have been discovered before the trial by the use of ordinary diligence. For that reason this motion must be overruled.

The exceptions to the ruling excluding the question put to the plaintiffs' witness Varney cannot be sustained. It is true that the ground on which it was made is not in accordance with the rule heretofore adopted and practised upon in this State. But the case does not show that the defendants were prejudiced by the ruling, so far as it is erroneous, but the reverse. The witness afterward testified in full for the defendants, and it does not appear that they had any occasion to avail themselves in the examination, or otherwise, of any of the privileges usually accorded to a party in regard to an opponent's witness.

THE CHURCH COUNCIL. "One who was there" writes to the Boston Journal, as follows concerning the results of the recent Congregational Council:

Two questions substantially were submitted to the Council. One, a question of church "discipline."—Can a church member sever his relations to his church by his own volition? To this they answer, No. "Voluntarily" absence of a resident member from the communion of the church and, from its public worship does not dissolve the covenant, but is a reasonable ground of admonition, and, if persisted in, of final censure.

When a regular complaint is made against such a member, charging him with offences, the penalty of which is excommunication, the defence that he has long ago forsaken the church is only an aggravation of his guilt.

The other question was one of "fellowship." Can a church refuse to hear inquiry into its affairs and reject the approach of admonition and still remain a Congregational church? To this the answer is, No. The Council recognize the fact that Plymouth Church, by its own vote, withdrew from the fellowship of Congregational churches, and assumed the position of independency. But subsequently, and after the assembling of the Council, it made such further and rescinding interpretation of its purpose and desire as led the Council only to indicate advice as to the intent thereof.

A present Plymouth Church stands upon an apparent contradiction. If it reaffirms its vote of withdrawal, it ceases to be a Congregational church and becomes independent. If it affirms the professions made in the paper read before the Council, it returns and stands in the "fellowship."

The two churches calling the council are advised to wait and see if Plymouth church will not satisfy them that it will maintain the principles and fellowship which it has been supposed to disavow.

These points you will find to constitute the pith of the "result of the council."

TREASURE SEARCHERS. A company is being organized in New York, the object of which is to acquire and operate a concession granted by the Spanish government, giving the right to recover the vast amount of treasure known to have been sunk in the fleet of Spanish galleons in the harbor of Vigo, Spain, 1702. The treasure contained in the galleons of 1702 was the accumulation of four years, both public and private, and estimated at a value of 80,000,000 of pieces of eight (each piece of eight being the equivalent of one piaster or Spanish silver dollar). It is estimated that the total value of treasure now submerged approximates $37,000,000.

THE SPRAGUE AFFAIRS.

STATEMENT BY THE TRUSTEES.

Mr. Chafee, the trustee of the property of the Messrs. Sprague, of Providence, has issued the following address to their creditors:

When I accepted, on the 1st day of December, 1873, the position of trustee, under the Sprague deed of mortgage, I entered upon the discharge of my duties with a firm resolution to administer my trust faithfully for the interest of creditors, and with a determination to be governed by the preferences of the mortgagors as to my policy only in so far as their wishes were in accord with as prompt a settlement of the claims of creditors as was practicable. I am able to say, that in all respects the pledges made by the A. & W. Sprague Manufacturing Co., and A. & W. Sprague to the general meeting of their creditors, that their property and their best energies should be devoted to the payment of their creditors, have, up to this time, been entirely fulfilled, and I have been seconded by them in every particular.

The record of my administration may be thus briefly stated: Two hundred and twelve creditors, including several of our city and county banks, representing in the aggregate nearly four millions of indebtedness, have accepted the notes secured by the first mortgage in exchange for their claims, and a large number of creditors, including banks and savings institutions, in addition, have signified their intention to exchange their paper immediately after the first of April.

The business of the mills and print works has been conducted thus far with a reduction of expenses equivalent to a saving of three hundred and fifty thousand dollars per annum.

The profits of the business from the 1st day of December to this date assure me that I could pay to-day, if it were due the interest on the mortgage notes which will become due on the first day of July next.

I have arrangements in contemplation and in progress for the disposition of a large amount of valuable property not required for the manufacturing business, which I confidently believe will enable me to pay a dividend to creditors on the 1st of July next.

I have been able to obtain my supplies for the mills and print works upon terms as favorable as any other purchaser in the market, and I am encouraged to believe that I have the confidence of the community generally in my firmness and integrity.

I have made the foregoing statement for the reason that I have been officially inform ed by the President of the National Bank of Commerce in this city, that the institution will file a petition in bankruptcy this morning, against the A. & W. Sprague Manufacturing Co. I wish the responsibility for this act to rest where it properly belongs.

More than 12,000 persons, including men, women and children, are in the employ of the company, and are dependent upon the mills and print works for their daily bread. Upwards of 15,000 people derive their entire or chief support from the industries connected with the business.

Upon the filing of the petition I must close the various works and turn these people out of employment. The immediate loss which this will entail upon creditors will amount to at least a quarter of a million of dollars, and the calamitous consequences which will ensue to the operatives every mind can picture for itself.

I will not yield to this necessity until I have declared my firm conviction that the A. & W. Sprague Manufacturing Company would, in the absence of proceedings against it in bankruptcy, be able to pay and discharge in full within a reasonable time every dollar of its obligations.

March 31. Z. CHAFEE, Trustee.

The following is said to have been President Grant's response to the address of the delegation of South Carolina tax-payers:

"Gentlemen—After listening to what has been said, I do not see that there is anything that can be done, either by the executive or by the legislative branch of the National Government, to better the condition of things which you have described. South Carolina has now a complete existence as a sovereign State, and must make her own laws. If these laws are oppressive to her people, it is very much to be deplored. But what is the cause of the evils in your State may be a question worth considering. Whether a part of that cause is not due to yourselves, whether it is not due to the extreme views which you have held with their your own action, has not considerable of the non-tax paying portion of your community against you, are questions which I leave for your own consideration. I have great sympathy with any people who are badly governed and overtaxed, as is the case in Louisiana, and as also seems to be the condition of South Carolina. But I will say to you candidly there the President's manner hardened visibly; that while I have watched the proceedings of your Tax-payers' Convention with no little interest, a portion of my sympathy has been abstracted by the perusal of a certain speech delivered during its deliberations, vilest and more slanderous than anything I have ever experienced before, even among my worst enemies in the North —a speech more bitter in its personality and falsehood than anything I have ever seen, even in the New York Sun."

THE MURDERED MISSIONARY. The New York Herald has received from Mexico the telegraphic correspondence between the Mexican authorities in relation to the murder of Rev. John L. Stephens, the American missionary. The mob by which the outrage was committed numbered over 800 persons, who shouted "Viva el cura!" while engaged in their fiendish work. One Mexican was killed at the same time as Mr. Stephens. The Governor of the State sent 200 men to restore order and to arrest and punish the guilty. Of the two priests who were arrested, the one of Tenchitlan was released for lack of proof against him. The other, of Ahualulco, has been declared properly imprisoned. The prompt action of the local authorities has been approved by the President through the Minister of the Interior, and the intimation is given that the adequate punishment of the guilty is expected, and will be commended.

ILLINOIS VENGEANCE. While about 20 persons were returning from the Campbellite church, six miles east of Carbondale, Illinois, Saturday night, they were fired upon from ambush and Mrs. Stansell and David Bulliner were dangerously wounded. It is believed the affair grew out of an old grudge existing between the Bulliner family and some neighbors and is but the continuance of the tragedy of three months ago in which young Bulliner's father was killed.

THE KENTUCKY ASSASSINATION. A despatch has already announced that W. L. Tyrrell, the Covington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, shot and killed the Hon. Harvey Myers at Covington, Ky, on Saturday. Both were prominent men in Kentucky. After the shooting Col. Tyrrell did not attempt to escape. His friends think he is on the verge of insanity owing to domestic trouble, his wife having made application for divorce. Some months ago he received a stab which came near proving fatal. Myers was Mrs. Tyrrell's attorney, and it appears that he gave offense to Tyrrell by putting certain questions to him during an examination in the divorce case in court that morning. Tyrrell went to Myers' room after the examination and an altercation ensued. Myers ordered Tyrrell out of the room, and the latter refused to go. Myers then attempted to eject him, when Tyrrell fired. The dying declaration of Myers has been taken.

The N. Y. World, which is somewhat noted for remarkable foreign correspondence, prints the following queer special from Rome: ROME, March 30th, 1857. Intense excitement prevailed at the Vatican during the closing hours of the Brooklyn Congregational Council. On receiving the news of its decision the Pope fainted.

In Indianapolis, the other day, a three-and-a-half-year-old child climbed through an attic window and walked along the ledge of the roof, thirty-two feet from the ground, the whole length of the house, and there stood unconcerned and enjoying the prospect. She was seen by the maid-of-all-work, who pleasantly called out, "Come down; I've got something for you." "All yite," cried the little one, and she retraced her steps and disappeared through the window in safety. That girl deserves a liberal dowry.

The New York Medical Record, March 16, 1874, reports that at the Charity Hospital, the method of treatment which is almost uniformly adopted when an irritable condition of the stomach manifests itself in connection with any chronic disease, is to administer raw beef, chopped fine and seasoned with salt, pepper and vinegar. Dr. Smith stated that this plan had, in his ward, seldom failed to afford relief.

It is pleasant to read that Dean Stanley has consented to the erection of a memorial to the brothers Wesley in Westminster Abbey, a privilege which less enlightened prelates, in a less liberal age, would have refused to those who desire to do honor to the memories of the great dissenters.

GET THE GENUINE ARTICLE.—The great popularity of "Wilbor's Compound of Cod Liver Oil and Lime" has induced some unprincipled persons to attempt to palm off a simple article of their own manufacture; but any person who is suffering from Coughs, Colds, or Consumption should be careful where they purchase this article. It requires no puffing; the results following its use are its best recommendations, and the proprietor has ample evidence on file of its extraordinary success in pulmonary complaints. The phosphate of lime possesses a most marvelous healing power, as combined with the pure Cod Liver Oil by Dr. Wilbor. This medicine is regularly prescribed by the medical faculty. For sale by A. B. WILBOR, Chemist, Boston.

CONGESTION OF THE LUNGS.—WAUPACA, WISCONSIN.—Dear Sir: Late in April, my father, who is seventy-two years of age, and has been a practicing physician most of his life, was seized with inflammation of the liver, followed by congestion of the right lung the attack being a return of one from which he was just recovering.

The disease finally culminated in what our physician called "catarrh of the lungs," and which others have called a "bronchial affection."

For more than three months father had been troubled with a severe cough, which gave him no rest night or day.

The doctor having exhausted all remedies without any effect, we commenced to use Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites the 22d of August, at which time the expectoration was very copious, very tough, (occasionally of the nature of matter) and generally a brick color.

Since that time it has entirely changed its nature, the color is quite light, with no mixture of blood, and is only about a third as much in quantity.

The swelling in his limbs, which has troubled him for about three months, has nearly disappeared, and he is fast recovering. Yours respectfully, S. E. MARSH.

"FAREWELL BROTHER"

BY REBECCA R. PIERCE

Far well brother! we shall meet again!" —[Unknown rite

On Earth's quiet bosom,
Where the weary rest,
With pale hands gently folded
On the passionless breast,
Held in peaceful slumber
We thy form have lain!
Farewell, farewell, brother;
We shall meet again!

Well we loved thee, brother
In each heart had grown
Strong the mystic union,
To the world unknown
Charity's fair mantle
Shroud each fault of thine,
For all to err is human,
But to forgive—divine!

We shall miss thee, brother
In each heart and home,
But the Master called thee,
"Come up higher; come!
Pure joys await thee
Free from earthly stain!
Farewell, farewell brother,
We shall meet again!

Tenderly above thee
Fair, white flowers are spread
We, with fadeless evergreen
Strew thy narrow bed
While from manly sorrow
Flows the sad refrain—
Farewell, farewell brother,
We shall meet again!

Meet beyond the river,
When life's day is done.
Long we may not tarry,
Ere the goal is won
Though our sad tears falling
Like the summer rain,
Beams the bow of promise
We shall meet again!

From G. C Goodwin & Co, New England Patent Medicine Warehouse, 38 Hanover St, Boston, May 8th, 1872.

Mr. F. W. Kinsman.—Dear Sir —We have had in all about 25 gross Adamson's Balsam, and have retailed nearly 40 dozen of it over our retail counter. Parties have been in and bought it the second time, and all pronounce it one of the best medicines in the market for coughs and colds, Some of our men have used it and say it is the best remedy they have tried.

Dr. Huntington says.—I have known Dr. Kinsman's Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam for some time, and I regard it far before any medicine of the kind I have used it in my practice and in my own family with complete success.

No. 10 State St., Boston, Aug. 8, 1873.

Dr. F. W. Kinsman.—Dear Sir —It gives me great pleasure to say that Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam cured me of a severe cold to which I have been subject, especially during the winter months, and I have in many instances recommended it to my friends, and all have been benefited by its use. We think it has no equal as a cough mixture.

Yours truly, U. L. PETTINGILL.
